750 MILES TO TOKYO

Iwo Jima Invaded

By Associated Press

American assault forces landed simultaneously today on Corregidor at the entrance to Manila bay and on Iwo island, 750 miles south of Tokyo, Japanese broadcasts reported while 1500 U. S. carrier planes pummeled the Tokyo metropolitan area for the second successive day.

Paratroopers drifted down from the skies on Corregidor while waves of landing barges poured troops on the beach, Radio Tokyo said. Unconfirmed Japanese broadcasts said "fierce battles are now raging on the southern shores" of the rock, opposite Bataan which Gen. MacArthur announced was recaptured in a combined amphibious and land operation.

in Japan's inner defenses, came on the heels of a two-day naval bombardment that Adm. Nimitz said had silenced all coastal batteries.

A Japanese imperial communique telling of the invasion asserted the first two assault waves were repulsed. It claimed five American warships —a battleship, two cruisers and two unidentified— were sunk in the "furious naval gun" bombardment of Iwo, largest of the Volcano islands.

Another enemy communique asserted one U. S. warship, probably a carrier, was set ablaze and 147 American planes were shot down in raids on the Tokyo metropolitan area which were carried on so relentlessly the controlled press suggested they were a prelude to invasion of Japan itself. The Emperor's high command admitted loss of 61 aircraft.

Radio Tokyo reported 200 carrier planes extended the raids of Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's forces today to Hachijo Jima in the Izo Islands, 200 miles south of the Nipponese capital. Superfortress pilots had previously reported the network of airfields stretching from Tokyo to Yokohama was speckled with flames and columns of smoke.

All of the Japanese reports of invasion and extension of air assaults lacked confirmation. But Tokyo is usually first to report these developments.

The power of widely-scattered blows by American forces and the confidence of naval officers in Washington that the Pacific fleet could strike successfully anywhere, lent some weight to Japs' fears that amphibious Yank troops "might strike directly at the Japanese homeland" under cover of Mitscher's carrier planes and Adm. Raymond A. Spruance's Fifth Fleet.

The invasion of Bataan peninsula, 2000 miles south, was supported by Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's Seventh Fleet without loss of a ship and only "light losses" for the assault forces.

Eleventh Corps troops landed Thursday along the southern shores, centering on Mariveles, and pushed rapidly inland over unmanned Jap defenses. The action was accomplished under the very muzzles of Corregidor's guns, but they had previously been knocked out by naval and air bombardment. The channel was

WE INVADE IWO JIMA—American amphibious forces are landing in great strength on Iwo Jima, in the Volcano Islands, 750 miles south of Tokyo, following a two-day naval and air bombardment, according to Tokyo radio, which claims that landings were made on two beaches, one at Futatsune, in the southwestern part of the island, and the other on Kamiyama beach in the southeastern section. Heavy fighting is reported in progress. Meanwhile, warplanes of the U. S. Fifth Fleet continue their tremendous air bombardment of Tokyo with 1500 planes reported raining bombs on the city for the second day. U. S. forces are also landing on Corregidor.

ANOTHER SURPRISE — From Manila yesterday came the news that U. S. forces had landed at Mariveles and had captured Bataan peninsula, shrine of the historic Yank stand against the Japs.

U. S. Planes Rip Reich 4th Day

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—U. S. heavy bombers, carrying the mighty air offensive against Germany into its fourth day, smashed at the Reich from the west today, and Berlin indicated Mediterranean-based squadrons were striking from the south again.

Another flurry of German "Achtung!" warnings placed the British-based bombers' attack on an arc close behind the Western Front Coblenz, big German supply base on the Rhine, was in the path of the bombers, the Nazi radio said.

Allied Armies Smash Closer to Ruhr Cities

PARIS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Increased enemy resistance and mud churned into quagmires by the wheels of mechanized warfare limited gains by Canadian First Army troops to yards as they battled today toward three communications centers before the northern entrance to the Ruhr.

While Gen. Crerar's ground forces fought to within two miles of Calcar, five miles from Uedem and two and a half miles from Goch on a 10-mile front south and east of Kleve, Allied aerial might blasted yesterday at the German lines protecting the Nazi munitions storehouse

Hundreds of medium and fighter bombers hit Uedem and attacked Hassum and Asperden, only towns between Crerar's forces and Goch itself. Targets in Wesel, at the gateway to the Ruhr, were left in flames, pilots reported.

On the ground, Scottish infantry slugging east through the mud and gaining nearly a mile were attacking bitterly-defended heights south of Moyland, approximately two miles from Calcar and 17 miles from Wesel.

A late front dispatch said the British were advancing on bombed Hassum, three miles west of Goch.

Southeast of Bedburg, on the road to Uedem, a Canadian charge by foot and armored troop carriers had gained two of three objectives.

A front dispatch said the floods along the Maas and Rhine were believed ebbing, and the ground drying.

German civilians were reported streaming from the Baltic zone, seeking haven behind Allied lines. Gen. Crerar's forces, made up of about 75 per cent British units, had increased their prisoner bag to approximately 6000.

On the only other active sector of the Western Front the U. S. Third Army won a tactical victory in the Eifel mountains by capturing heights overlooking the Pruem and Enz rivers. The streams protect the south flank of Bitburg, enemy communications center eight miles to the north.

Elsewhere on the Western Front mud halted most activities, but the U. S. 76th Division pushed a half-mile northeastward along the Echternach-Irrel road, winning heights dominating the Pruem river.

The Fifth Division of the Third Army advanced half a mile northeast into Schankweiler, six miles northwest of Echternach.

Southeast of Echternach, Third Army patrols entered Wasserbillig, at the junction of the Sure and Moselle rivers, but were forced to withdraw, supreme headquarters said, and in the Sinz area southeast of Remich, Germans counter-attacking with tanks retook several pillboxes.

Flood waters were reported ebbing along the Roer river front of the U. S. First and Ninth Armies.

BULLETIN

WITH BRITISH-CANADIAN FORCES IN GERMANY, Feb. 17 (AP)—Allied troops sweeping forward with renewed momentum have advanced within 2500 yards of Goch and Calcar.

Doubt if Japs Dare Risk Navy

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17—NBC correspondent Robert McCormick reported from Guam today American naval officers at advanced U. S. Pacific fleet headquarters do not expect the Jap navy to accept the challenge to battle off Tokyo.

"It is reasonable to think Japan will go back to her old strategy and keep her fleet as a threat to us instead of throwing it away in a mad suicide banzai charge at this time," McCormick said.

"The enemy fleet may put on a great act. It may sail away grandly from home ports, ostensibly to do battle, in the style of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, then return to port and tell the Japanese people what great victories they have won."

London Fears Malta Lifeline Sub Lost

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP)—The submarine Porpoise, one of the British underseas craft which helped save Malta by running supplies to the besieged Mediterranean island during its critical days, is overdue and presumed lost, the admiralty announced today.

Excuse Please--So Nervous!

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (INS)—In reporting American attacks on Iwo Jima, the Tokyo radio, heard by NBC, told the Japanese people today in what must have been shaky tones that U. S. assault forces had made a withdrawal unparalleled in military history.

"After two hours shelling and making all attempts to land," the Nippon newscaster said, "The enemy had to withdraw to a distance of some 20 to 30 thousand kilometers, leaving huge losses in men and boats behind."

In such a withdrawal, the Americans would have backed all the way to San Francisco, across the United States, past New York and out into another ocean.

Twenty to 30 thousand kilometers is roughly 12,000 to 18,000 miles.

Konev Closing on Berlin Key Cities

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, Feb. 17 (AP) — Russian troops closed on shell-ripped Guben, 50 miles southeast of Berlin, today and hammered toward Cottbus, a second gatewayfortress city on the Spree river, 47 miles from the Nazi capital.

A Moscow dispatch said Marshal Konev's armored units had ranged to within 35 miles of Berlin.

The Germans rushed armor and huge infantry reinforcements into the spreading battle southeast of Berlin, and Soviet planes took a heavy toll on crowded highways.

Guben, on the Neisse river, was under artillery barrage, and Soviet troops fought toward it from three sides.

The Berlin radio said the Russians were within 12 miles of Cottbus, southwest of Guben, in the area of Forst on the Neisse.

A Red Star dispatch from Konev's front declared a river—perhaps the Neisse—had been stormed in this area and another stream had been forced. The Russians were reported within sight of the Spree, last natural defense line before Berlin. The Spree rolls by Cottbus, important rail center.

The German high command announced fall of Sagan, Bober river city 35 miles southeast of Guben, and said Konev's men had scored "single penetrations" into surrounded Breslau, Silesian capital.

The Germans also indicated fall of Poznan—holdout strongpoint in Poland—was near, saying street fighting raged in the heart of the city.

Moscow had no confirmation of German reports that Konev had linked with Marshal Zhukov's First White Russian Army at Crossen, 63 miles southeast of Berlin and 36 miles from Cottbus.

Russian broadcasts said Konev's tanks were within 10 miles of Cottbus.

Soviet dispatches said the Nazis were throwing all kinds of troops, and even Berlin school teachers and policemen, into the battle on the capital's southeastern approaches, trying desperately to form a solid line. They struggled to keep Konev from breaking into the Spree forest, 40 miles southeast of Berlin.

German counter-attacks increased, and a Moscow dispatch said Konev's whirlwind advance into Brandenburg province might be slowed by this bitter opposition.

2 SOMERVILLE RUNAWAYS BACK HOME

In the midst of a widespread search by State and local police throughout Greater Boston, William Maguire, 10, and his sister, Patricia, 8, walked calmly into their home in Bradley st., Somerville, today after being missing since Thursday.

In response to questions by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Maguire, and police, the children said they had spent their time touring stores in Boston and Somerville during most of their absence.

Thursday night, they said they slept in a barn in Vinal ave., opposite Somerville high school, and last night they crept into St. Anne's Church, in Medford st., near their home, and slept comfortably there.

The children and their sister, Maureen, 7, left home Thursday and made their way to Boston.

After touring downtown stores, they decided to go free-riding on the Elevated and crawled under turnstiles.

They were separated at North Station when Maureen was detected slipping under a turnstile during the evening rush hour and was turned over to police of the North End station.

Her mother took her home Thursday evening but no trace had been found of her missing brother and sister until they walked into the house this morning, amazed at the worry over their absence.

WAC Bride of 3 AWOL, Says FBI

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (INS)—A 19-year-old WAC private, Julia Pearl Davis Steele of Hopewell, Va., today was held in $2000 bail on charges arising, according to the FBI, from marriage to three men—one in the Navy and two in the Army.

Arrested on a federal warrant from Atlanta, Ga., the girl was said to be AWOL from Fort Des Moines, Ia., since Sept. 1.

FBI agents said Julia married Seaman James Clayton Steele of Norfolk Navy base in 1940 and 11 months later wed Cpl. Frederick George Brown of Camp Barclay, Tex. Steele obtained a divorce and Brown went overseas, and Julia is said to have married Pvt. David Laub at Augusta, Ga., in 1943.

The U. S. attorney in Atlanta charged that Julia, since June, 1942, has been collecting government allotment checks of $50 a month for each of her two Army husbands. She has waived extradition.

Only One Wife Sees 2-Family Man Held

Although Joseph R. Russo, 27, told police he had two wives, only one appeared in municipal court today when he was arraigned on charges of larceny and polygamy and she didn't look at him nor did he look at her.

Marcella Russo of Chambers st., West End, an attractive brunette described by Russo as "Wife No. 1," stared out a window while Russo pleaded not guilty and was held under $3000 bail for hearing on Feb. 23.

Joseph Russo

Ethel Russo, 23, of Asylum st., South End, mother of two children, "Wife No. 2," did not show up in court although she visited Russo in his jail cell yesterday.

During the brief proceedings Russo kept his eyes on Judge Gillen as he calmly entered his plea, apparently was unruffled by his predicament.

Marcella, mother of four children, had also visited Russo in his cell but nobody would talk about the reasons for the visits of the alleged polygamist's wives.

Police said Russo told them he was "lucky in gambling" and thus able to afford two wives on his weekly salary of $28. He claimed that he gave each of them $35 a week, police said.

Japs in Manila Bar Surrender

FOURTEENTH CORPS HEADQUARTERS, Manila, Feb. 17 (AP)—Japanese defenders holed up in the old walled city, with an estimated several thousand civilians, last night ignored Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold's proffer of honorable surrender or safe conduct for civilians from besieged Intramuros.

Gen. Griswold set four hours limit for compliance with the offer given at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. As the Japs had not acknowledged the offer this morning, American guns and tanks were poised to renew the assault on the medieval citadel from which the enemy has been defying American soldiers for 11 days.

Norton Blasts Red Teaching

Declaring that the midst of war was an inappropriate time for "underground" propagandists to dictate what American school children should be taught, School Committeeman Clement A. Norton asserted today the committee and its teachers needed no assistance in educating Boston's children.

His statement came as action by the legislative rules committee was awaited on Senate and House bills seeking the removal of State Education Comr. Julius E. Warren as unfit.

Comr. Warren, who recently failed in an attempt to have the Legislature repeal the State's Flag Salute law, presided last Saturday at a conference on education on Russia, during which he proposed that teachers, pupils and parents be enlisted in a crusade to bring about better understanding of Soviet Russia.

The conference was sponsored by the Massachusetts Council for American-Soviet Friendship.

"The day will never come when the Boston school committee and its teachers will ever need the aid or assistance of Red propagandists or parlor pinks to tell them what our students should be studying," Norton declared.

"Our teachers are well qualified and have proven their qualifications by the manner in which they have surveyed the governments of Russia and other nations in comparison with our own and the suggestions they have offered after these careful studies.

"When Russia gets ready to allow AMERICAN educators and teachers, who believe in a 100 per cent democratic form of government, to survey the Soviet government and the history of the Soviet Union and its operations without the present restrictions, then it will be time to consider whether or not we should change our present educational program.

"Despite the alleged reduction of illiteracy, the Russian educational system has faults in comparison with ours.

"Communism is indoctrinated in all pupils at all age levels. Freedom of thought and expression by pupils and teachers is discouraged or forbidden.

"In spite of the Soviet constitutional promise of freedom of educational opportunity, there is some doubt if it really exists.

"With the war still raging and American youth being killed, it certainly is an inappropriate time for underground educators and propagandists to be the chief advisers on what courses of study should be given to American school children."

Mother Slain, Son, 16, Held

DETROIT, Feb. 17 (AP)—Investigators of the killing of Mrs. Ida Kent, housewife and Bible class teacher, sought clues today from neighbors and friends of the victim.

The police held in custody 16-year-old Elvin Kent, a son. Mrs. Kent, 43, was killed Thursday night in the kitchen of her home. Detectives said that Elvin had been unable to give a coherent account of events involving himself the evening of the slaying. The boy told of burning his socks and trousers because they had become stained with blood when he came upon his mother's body.

The killer beat Mrs. Kent on the head with a skillet and stabbed her in her chest and arms. Police found no evidence of robbery.

Morgenthau Reds' Banquet Headliner

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—A capitalistic $6 dinner, with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, as principal speaker, will be staged by the Communists at the plush Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in honor of the Red Army, Feb. 22—with minor recognition of Washington's Birthday.

BLONDE BANDIT SUSPECT—Lillian Leonora Pirano, of Los Angeles, who was jailed when a World War II veteran identified her as the woman who slugged him with a gun during a $350 holdup after he refused to remove his trousers when she ordered him.

Sponsor of the caviar feast is the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, a replacement organization, according to the Dies committee, of the old Friends of the Soviet Union, whose members toasted the downfall of capitalism with coffee and doughnuts.

The new group came into being, one Dies report set forth, when . . . "it became necessary from the Communist standpoint to supplant the Friends of the Soviet Union with a new organization better adapted to the present-day military alliance between the United States and the Soviet Union."

Significance in the choice of Sec. Morgenthau as the principal speaker was seen in the fact that the Soviet is now angling for a $6,000,000,000 postwar credit from the Treasury.

Scheduled for a prominent part in the proceedings is Corliss Lamont, the millionaire Red, chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

The announcement describes the affair as "a joint tribute to our American armies and the fighting forces of our Russian ally," but with nine pages devoted to the Red Army's history, there is no mention of the American Army's achievements, nor a word of tribute to George Washington on the anniversary of his birth.

World War II Doubles War I

By the Associated Press

The war passed another milestone for the United States today.

This nation now has been at war 1168 days, exactly twice the length of our 584-day participation in World War I.

U. S. casualties reached 782,180 on Feb. 15, the latest report. This more than doubled the World War I total of 364,800 from all causes.

During this war to date the U. S. has lost 169,046 killed and 449,160 wounded, with an additional 100,944 missing and 63,030 prisoners. World War I losses showed 126,000 killed and died, 234,300 wounded and 4500 prisoners and missing.

This nation mobilized 4,355,000 men in all services in World War I. The War Dept. reported Feb. 2 last there were 8,100,000 men in the Army alone, 5,100,000 of these overseas.

The last war was fought in a relatively small area. This war is global.

Boston Captain Gave Life On Luzon to Rescue 600

A letter written home by PFC G. Willard Woodruff of Oakdale rd., Newton Highlands, combat movie photographer with the Rangers, led to the disclosure today of how Capt. James C. Fisher, former Boston doctor, laid his life on the altar of heroism in the dramatic night rescue of 500 prisoners from the Cabantuan prison camp on Luzon.

Woodruff had volunteered for the raid and had been accepted. But he wrote: "Capt. Fisher said I couldn't go. The captain was wounded during this action and died shortly after."

Capt. Fisher's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, the authoress, revealed the rest of the story to the Boston American from her home in Arlington, Vt.

A staff sergeant who accompanied Capt. Fisher on the perilous mission had written:

"Capt. Jim went out with the Sixth Rough Commando Battalion, leading several hundred Filipino guerrillas. His courage was well known. I was with him when he first went through the gates of the stockade in the black night, leading his guerrilla band. I followed him in.

"A Jap mortar shell exploded. There was a shout of 'Man down!' Capt. Jim was the only American officer with the guerrillas. Another shout went up. 'Call Capt Fisher to bring in first aid.'

"He was on the ground, hit in the stomach. He said, 'I'm Capt. Fisher.'

"He was taken out on a stretcher, to a hospital behind the lines. Two Filipino doctors, a man and a woman attended him. Later two American doctors released from the prison stockade performed an operation on him. He died at 11 o'clock the next morning.

"Capt. Jim was loved by the Filipinos. He lies buried at the foot of a large tree. The Filipinos have vowed it will never be cut down, and that after the war they will make it his ground. They are going to call it Fisher Park."

Capt. Fisher was born in Arlington, Vt. He was a graduate of Harvard Medical School, and served internships at Boston City Hospital and Newton Hospital. He is survived by his wife, the former Eleanor Bodine, of Philadelphia.

Pvt. Woodruff's letter leading to the revelation of Capt. Fisher's heroism, was written to George S. Woodruff of Newton Highlands, his father. The 22-year-old combat photographer wrote:

"Well, I missed the greatest story yet to come out of this theater. Our unit handled the coverage exclusively, but, unfortunately, I was one of the boys at the quiet end of things.

"I had just been back from another landing when we were called together and told the Rangers were going to attempt to free some prisoners of war. Our unit had been living along with the Rangers since New Guinea. 'Any volunteers?' we were asked.

"Only three could go along, together with our lovie. I was one of those accepted. We were two movie men and one still photographer. Then someone spotted my foot, which had been infected by barbed wire. And Capt. Fisher wouldn't let me go.

"So I had to stay behind and photograph the column pulling out. Still, I was lucky not to have been taken along, for next day the infection had passed up my leg and I limped badly for two days. At any rate, our Signal Corps unit had an 'exclusive' on the mission. Too bad they struck at night or there'd really be pictures."

Woodruff, a graduate of Newton High School, enlisted in the Army three years ago last February. He landed on Luzon with his unit three days before D-Day.

His final tribute to Capt. Fisher was: "I have never known a finer type of man. May God rest his gallant soul."

That 7-Inch Snow Due to Hit Early Next Week—Maybe

From the looks of things today, snowbound New Englanders are going to "get a break" from the weatherman and have a week-end without snow.

Don't count too heavily on it but G. Harold Noyes, U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist, predicted that a snow storm which blanketed several southern states will miss this section.

"Mostly cloudy and somewhat colder today and partly cloudy tonight and Sunday is all we can see right now," Noyes said.

Beyond Sunday, however, things are not so optimistic. The long-range forecast, which the weatherman hurriedly stated was subject to change without notice, called for seven inches of snow either Monday or Tuesday.

"That forecast still stands but remember, it's only according to indications, not a definite prediction," the weatherman declared.

CHRISTMAS IN FEBRUARY—Christmas came to David Benites, 1½ years, of Los Angeles, on St. Valentine's Day this year when his grandmother, Mrs. Esther Benites, who holds the child, arranged for the holiday, complete with gifts and tree. He missed the real Christmas because the car in which he was riding with his parents broke down, and by the time it was fixed the holiday was over and the Benites were penniless. His mother, Mrs. David Benites, shows him the gifts.

The Mayor told a conference of civic, religious and educational leaders that he is working to formulate a well-rounded program which will offer the wives and families of servicemen the best that Boston, as a community, can give.

Mayor Kerrigan promised that new facilities will be furnished wherever necessary to meet every need of the servicemen's loved ones at home.

Mayor Kerrigan emphasized that the plan would aid all women of whatever social and financial strata and would provide "advice and assistance in material things" and "a proper recreational, social and educational program."

"You cannot have a good fighter if he is worried about home conditions," the mayor told the community representatives who met to discuss the program. "The well-being of the wives and families of men in the service is of the utmost importance to our community and to our nation. I was in the army and I speak from experience. I know the problems confronting the wives, mothers, and sweethearts of men in the service and away from home."

The following civic, social and religious leaders were present at the meeting:

Rare Blood Needed To Save Burned Boy

A fire-scarred, 11-year-old boy, badly in need of blood transfusions, is fighting for his life at Cambridge Hospital.

The hospital has available for him just two pints of the rare type blood which he must have. It is just enough to "carry him over the week-end," one physician said today.

Then he must have more.

Night before last, four women and six men, all employes of Stone & Webster, went to the hospital and volunteered blood to save the boy. They were members of the Dracula Club, the group of Boston business men and women who give blood to the Red Cross each month.

Only one had the type of blood necessary. Matt Cummings of Ware st., Dorchester. He gave a pint.

The physicians ask this:

If you know your blood type is ORH-negative or BHR-negative, please go to the Cambridge Hospital, 330 Mt. Auburn st., Cambridge.

Or if you do not know what type of blood you have, the hospital will type it for you.

Difficulty in obtaining the type needed for the victim, Leonard Muccioli, of Holworthy pl., Cambridge, lies in the fact that only 10 per cent or 15 per cent of the people have it, the physicians explained.

Yet they need 10 pints as soon as possible, so his blood level may be raised to the point where skin grafting operations may be undertaken.

The boy has been at Cambridge Hospital since Jan. 26, when flames from a street bonfire near his home flared over him, badly burning his stomach and his right leg.

Wife of Gould Heir Bares Nazi Ransom

By EDWARD KENNEDY

PARIS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Florence Lacaze Gould said today she had invested more than 5,000,000 francs ($100,000) in a Monte Carlo bank which French authorities say was controlled by the Germans—but that she did it only to keep the Germans from carrying her millionaire husband, Frank Jay Gould, off to Germany.

ROBBED OF $95—A man believed to be a merchant seaman was being hunted today as the assailant and robber of Miss Mary Curry of Meridian st., East Boston. Miss Curry, after offering to aid the man who said he was "sick and dizzy," was slugged near Central sq. and robbed of her handbag containing $95.

INP by Joseph Parodi

Mrs. Gould told the Associated Press she undoubtedly was "the wife of a very prominent American" mentioned by Secretary Morgenthau as being under investigation by French authorities. Morgenthau said Tuesday the United States had told the French government it would assist in a French investigation of a "very famous" American couple suspected of collaborateion with the Nazis. France had asked if the United States would object to an investigation, addressing its query to the Treasury because the American might have assets in the United States.

Mrs. Gould is a former Parisian atress and the third wife of Gould, who has lived in France for 36 years. Youngest son of Jay Gould, he inherited an estate estimated at $10,000,000 from his father's $83,000,000 fortune.

"I haven't the slightest fear of investigation," Mrs. Gould added. "Not half the story has been told. Mr. Morgenthau should have known the details before he spoke.

"Yes, it is true I invested some of my money in this banking concern—5,000,000 francs and more," she said. "I did so to keep Frank Jay Gould from being taken to Germany. He is 67 years old and a sick man. If he had been put in a concentration camp it would have been his death.

"The date of the transaction was July 21, 1944—when the Americans were sweeping through France and the Germans were pulling out. If I had wanted to help the Germans, do you think I would have waited until that late date? No. That would mean I was crazy."

Mrs. Gould said she had not only paid money to the Germans, but had also planned Gould's kidnaping with the help of the French Maquis to prevent the Germans seizing him.

"After the money was paid, I was not even sure I could trust these people, so I planned to have my own husband kidnaped."

Mrs. Gould was then in Paris, and her husband in Nice, where he remained, unmolested, throughout the war. She said she got four members of the FFI and a physician to proceed southward with the object of taking her husband into the Maquis so the Germans would not find him.

"They got as far as Aix en Provence where local FFI authorities would let them proceed no farther because they told them an Allied landing in the south of France was imminent," Mrs. Gould said.

South Lee volunteers saved their fire truck, however. All they need now is a place to keep it.

NAZI LINES REFORM AS ALLIES DELAY

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH U. S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 17 (AP)—German western front defenses, in a chaotic condition three weeks ago as a result of the Russian drive on Berlin, have been stabilized and reorganized.

By not striking at the height of the German confusion the Allies have made it possible for the Nazi high command to repair much of the damage done by its hurried graining of divisions to the eastern front at their height of the retreat from the Belgium bulge.

Except for air attacks and the Canadian First Army offensive, west front Germans have been molested only by local actions and patrol activity.

This one army attack at a time has been typical of the Allied winter strategy and the Germans have been able to shift reserves like a backfield defense in a football game along the long front to hold threatened spots at the expense of weakening other places.

While the Germans have been able to reorganize the front, this does not mean it is strongly held. It is held with the least number of crack troops since last October.

Three weeks ago during the eastern front break-through the Germans rushed division after division from the Ardennes east and there was considerable confusion behind the German lines.

The vital gateway to the Ruhr north of Cologne was left virtually unprotected except for the threat of the Roer dams and a handful of second rate troops on a mile front. The combination of the threat from the Ardennes and the Russian threat to Berlin brought German morale to its lowest point of the war.

Given time, however, the German high command was able to sort out its forces, reallot them and come up with a sort of balanced front.

Although the Nazi line is stretched so thin it might snap anywhere, chances of achieving a tactical surprise have considerably decreased.

Iwo Invasion Like Bahamas Landing

By RALPH H. HEPPE
Associated Press War Editor

Invasion of Iwo Jima, a volcanic speck of an island but of great strategic importance on the road to Japan, thrusts American ground forces to within 750 miles of Tokyo, their closest approach to the enemy capital.

If Americans will visualize an invasion of the Bahamas, southeast of Florida, it will give them an idea how Tokyo citizens feel over the landing of Yank troops so close to their capital city. The air-mile distance from the Bahamas to Washington about equals that from Iwo to Tokyo.

Conquest of Iwo holds grave implications for Nippon.

It will for the first time place the American land-based medium bombers and fighters within a striking distance of Japan.

It will base U. S. warplanes on the eastern flank of the vital enemy supply line to Formosa and the conquered empire to the south.

It will eliminate the principal springboard for enemy air thrusts at the Marianas lair of the American B-29s.

It will place American air and ground forces within 100 miles of Haha Jima, in the Bonins, where is situated Port Lloyd, sometimes undeservedly referred to as Japan's Pearl Harbor. Twenty miles north of Haha is Chichi Jima, another important airbase island of the Bonins.

Iwo is a rugged, sulphur producing island similar in shape to South America, but in miniature. At the southern end is a two-coned volcanic mountain—Suribachi Yama, meaning "grinding bowl."

Available maps indicate stretches of sandy beaches along the lower eastern and western shores. The island is about eight miles long and two and a half wide at the shoulders.

Prior to invasion, Iwo received one of the most intensive neutralization campaigns of the Pacific war. The first blow fell June 14, 1944, delivered by an American carrier task force.

U. S. warships shelled Iwo on ten separate missions. Several of the bombardments were coordinated with strikes by carrier aircraft and by land-based Liberators and Superfortresses.

In December, the strategic air force, Pacific ocean areas, took over the assignment and the island was hit every day from Dec. 7 through Feb. 17.

The December forays put an end to enemy daylight sweeps from Iwo against Saipan. To keep the Japanese pinned down at night, single bombers hit the Iwo airfield almost every hour with fragmentation bombs.

swept clean by a fleet of minesweepers.

Other forces of the same corps swept 11 miles down the Manila Bay side of the peninsula to Lamao toward a junction with the amphibious troops. Much fighting remains before Bataan will be cleared of Japs, but the enemy is disorganized, encircled, and cut off from supplies and roads.

The Bataan action, coupled with a successful assault on Corregidor, would reopen Manila Bay as a base for expansion of American might in the West Pacific.

Within Manila Yank infantrymen cut suicide Japanese troops down to a small triangle south of the Pasig river while other forces turned southward to strike at the rear of carefully prepared enemy defenses fanning out from Ft. McKinley.

American bombers operating out of the Philippines and other Pacific bases wrecked five Jap freighters from the Ryukyu Islands to the Dutch East Indies, while Allied planes blasted enemy communications and transport in Burma and China.

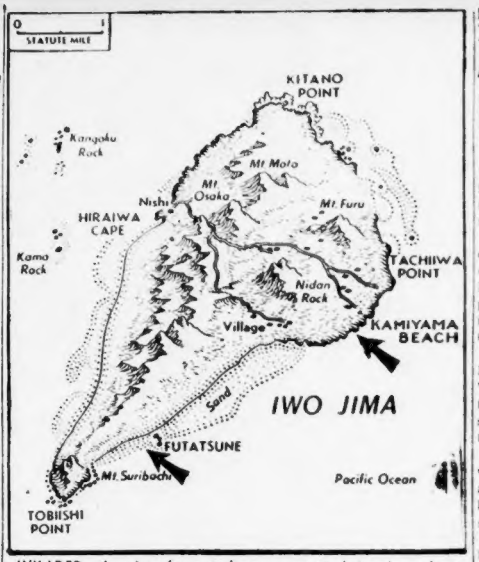
Peace Agent?

LONDON, Feb. 17 (INS)—The Paris radio reported that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, ex-president of the Reichsbank, had arrived in Switzerland "to try to contact neutral and Allied personalities with a view to negotiating a German surrender."

The broadcast, unconfirmed from other sources, quoted "information from the Swiss frontier" in making the report.



INVADED—American forces today were reported storming ashore on Iwo Jima, Jap base only 750 miles south of Tokyo. The Yank invaders were said to have started landing operations on Futatsune beach . . . and to have followed that assault a short time later with a second landing on Kamiyama beach. MIAMI U. HEAD DIES

OXFORD, O., Feb. 17 (AP)—Dr. Alfred H. Upham, 67, president of Miami University since 1928, died of a heart attack today.

2 Dead, 150 Flee Fires in State

Fires throughout Massachusetts today claimed two lives and forced 150 persons, most of them in nightclothing, to flee to slushy streets.

Victims were Mrs. Ruth Kyriacou, 50, of Springfield, whose charred body was found in her kitchen where police said she apparently had been burning papers in a gas stove, and Margaret Ann Olson, 4, of Vineyard Haven.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Olson, died at Martha's Vineyard Hospital from burns suffered when her clothing ignited as she attempted to lift some paper from a wood fire in her home.

Thirty-two Roxbury families were driven out when a three-alarm blaze swept a four-story brick tenement house in Marble st.

In Cambridge, 20 persons were forced to flee a Massachusetts ave. apartment house during a fire which was confined to the premises occupied by Miss Jean Graffan and Miss Hester Strickland.

Mrs. John Campbell, 75, of Western ave., Hull, and her two grandchildren, Deborah Reynolds, 7 months, and James Reynolds, 2, were rescued by a woman neighbor and firemen during a $3500 fire in their cottage.

Harmonica Plea To JVA Units

In letters to Junior Victory Army headquarters and to the "Colin Kelly" Corps of Newport, R. I., Mrs. E. Wilkinson, of 532 Commercial st., East Braintree, has expressed her appreciation of efforts being made to obtain harmonicas for her two nieces in England.

The two girls are forming a JVA corps and want to organize an harmonica band but are unable to find these instruments in England.

Any spare harmonicas which JVA boys and girls may have should be sent to Mrs. Wilkinson at her home address. The "Colin Kelly" Corps is taking the leadership in seeking these.

The Newport unit is to spearhead a campaign there by school children to collect critical materials needed for the war effort, following appointment of Capt. B. McCormick, U. S. Navy, retired, as Salvage Committee chairman.

Under leadership of Col. William A Kelley, sponsor of the corps, the drive will be headed by Coms. David N. Gomes and Victoria Maingot; Past Coms. Chris Horan, Irma C. Maingot, William C. Sullivvan and Kenneth Kerr and Capt. William T. Dennett.

They represent four grammar schools and three high schools

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Million Flowers Will Be Displayed

"Springtime in America" is the theme of the 74th New England Flower Show to be held March 10-17 at Horticultural Hall under auspices of the Mass. Horticultural Society, featured by a series of spring gardens from all sections of the country.

Besides a gorgeous display of a million flowers of all kinds, there will be a demonstration of horticultural therapy being conducted by women of the Garden Club Service in Army and Navy hospitals.

This includes the making of bedside terrariums where wounded servicemen can plant seeds, the planting and cultivation of outdoor gardens for ambulant patients, and distribution of flowers to the patients.

Waltz Time Again

By BETTY ALDEN

GLIDING IN GRACEFUL rhythms around the Copley Plaza ballroom society's waltz enthusiasts had a wonderful time last evening at the third of the season's Waltz Evenings which benefit prisoners of war. Many young people, home from college for the week-end, joined their elders at cocktails and dinner parties before coming on to waltz and polka into the wee small hours.

Debutante Rachel Rock, guest of honor at a dinner party given by Mrs. Robert Lovett, wore a lovely full skirted gown combining robins-egg blue and black, and visited the punch bowl during intermission with Dave Donahue. May Minturn Sedgwick, one of her dinner guests, was pretty in a flame chiffon with multicolored sequins on the bodice, as she glided and twirled with Ens. Dick Morrison of Findlay, O. Another peppy four come included Betsy Bird and Mary Kay Arnold, senior classmates at Beaver, with Gordon C. Wilcox and David B. Jones.

MR. AND MRS. BRADLEY DEWEY and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus W. Soule gave a party for their daughters, Ann Dewey, a junior at Vassar, and Marjorie Soule, who is vacationing from Bennington. Their fun began with a dinner party at the Deweys' Cambridge residence and guests included Ann's Vassar classmates, Janet Starkweather of Scarsdale, N. Y., Mary V. Thompkins of Summit, N. J., Lucy Gallup of Newton, and Elizabeth Smith of Cambridge.

Also Esther Huston and Alice Holland of Philadelphia, who are studying in Boston this winter, Ann Dudley Perkins and Frances Wesselhoeft of Boston. Their partners were Robert Dean, Chevis Smythe, Thomas Van Neter, Wm. R. MacAusland, Charles Miner, Davis Sohier, Jr., Donald S. Tucker, Jr., Dr. Francis G. Barnum, Jr., Dr. Benjamin Barnes, Lt. (j.g.) Davis R. Dewey, Nathan S. Davis, Hugo Dunlop Smith, Isaac Taylor, William Hornbeck and Winsor Soule, 2d.

DIANA SULLIVAN, one of this season's attractive blonde debs, wore ashes of rose satin lavishly beaded with crystal and ice blue sequins. She was one of the merry young people coming on from the dinner party given by Anna and Marie Prince. Baba Mitchell wore a lovely creation of rose faille and black and her sister, Helen, escorted by her fiance, Edward Hellier, chose ice blue satin.

MISS VIRGINIA HOAR—attends Waltzing Evening at the Copley Plaza.

TRY-OUTS for the Vincent Club's annual musical revue, highlight of every spring social season, begin Monday and Tuesday at the Junior League. Since so many debs who would like to be in the song and dance routines are working on 9 to 5 jobs try-outs are being held from 1:30 to 6:30 so that they will have time to prove their talent even after working hours. American Fashions Acclaimed Finest in Years

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

DESPITE THE RESTRICTING influences of war . . . American fashions are the finest in years. They become the American woman who clamors for simple elegance of line and detail. They give her that subtle, uncluttered look . . . which is essentially Yankee Doodle and dandy. They afford her ample freedom of movement . . . a figure fluidity that is feminine and fine artistry.

Designers have taken ingeniously detailed fabrics and fashioned them with a new-found brilliance that has brought them renown and a permanent place in the fashion sun. Tailoring is tempered with a dressmaking touch in suits . . . which this spring will be more than just serviceable. Suits will be practical but pleasant coverage without the thigh-hugging lest tubes of up and down straightness which last year passed for skirts. And be sure the neckline is up as far as you can get it.

Suits and hats will be an inseparable duet . . . orchestrated to produce the most harmonious fashion music in years. SHOULD LANDLORD BAR CHILDREN?

WHAT DO YOU think about the legislation which Representative Cleary of Boston is sponsoring in behalf of parents and children?

Mr. Cleary does not believe that owners of tenement houses and apartment buildings should be allowed to bar little girls and boys from their premises.

He would fine or imprison persons who refuse to rent homes to families with children.

If you can find time, drop us a line and express YOUR opinion concerning this vital question.

Already we have received scores of letters, from which we have taken these interesting comments:

"Three cheers for Representative Cleary's bill No. 972! It's about time someone proposed such a measure. Many families are couped up in small rooms because they cannot move anywhere with children.

"Apartment house owners put up with drunkards and all-night carousing, but they too often put a ban on children. And, frequently, they make life miserable for those who have babies after they have signed leases. Why make the fine only $100? Why not $500 or more?"

"I thank God for men like Representative Cleary. If the law he has proposed becomes a reality, I shall not hesitate to have the children I have always wanted. I have one child now and live in fear of being evicted. That would surely happen if I had another."

"I can't see why any person should be compelled to rent his property to tenants he doesn't want.

"We all love children—I have three of my own. But I don't allow them to race up and down the front halls or drag carts and sleds over floors, as most people with children think proper when they are paying rent.

"It's not the children but the parents who are to blame. And after they move out, your place is a wreck and it requires more than a year's rent to restore it to a semblance of its original condition."

"Representative Cleary's bill ought not to pass unless a provision or section is inserted to protect the property owner for any damage caused by tenants; this to be determined by inspection.

"Compare the cost of maintenance now with rents during the past few years and the answer is: The property owner has taken it on the chin for much too long a time. Furthermore, is the Cleary Bill constitutional?"

"Every friend of the people in the Legislature should vote for Mr. Cleary's proposed law. We say we are against birth control. But nobody can deny that we tolerate and even encourage birth control when we allow landlords to evict young couples because they have a baby instead of a cat or dog."

"If a man owns a house he should have the right to rent it to whom he wishes. That is freedom. It savors too much of Hitlerism to enact legislation forcing landlords to admit children to their property when they don't want them."

"I wonder how we would have raised our twelve-million-man Army if children had been as unwelcomed in tenement property 20 years ago as they are today?

"If the Legislature has any consideration for the men who are fighting and winning this war, it will pass Representative Cleary's bill promptly. The returning servicemen will want to have children. But how can they if the owners of property threaten to throw them out when the first baby arrives?"

There must be much more to say about this controversial question. So, again, WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT IT? Let us know. Action on Representative Cleary's bill may be taken this week.

Beware, my friend, of pretty girls,
Shun the bower of the fallen goddess;
Fear the charm of the skirt that whirls,

When girls grow tender, then be sure
That slavery lurks within their rapture;
Love's A B C is art to allure,
Beauty that blinds and a charm to capture

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT has its horses and women experts, too. A pamphlet recently issued in Washington, D. C. deals with the best way to handle women workers. According to the government experts, women employes should not be "pampered." The boss should be "firm" with female help. He should not hesitate to give his women workers a good calling down now and then. Commenting on this advice, our Horses and Women Department said: "This is just another post-war dream. Now is the time for all good men to pamper the female help. And how!" This all recalls the story of the restaurant owner who when he heard a crash of breaking dishes in the kitchen said: "That's Kitty having another accident. Before the war I would fire her for that. Now I have to go and ask her if she's hurt."

Give me 6-to-1 and I will wager you that within the next seven years a Crosby horse will win either the Santa Anita Handicap or the Kentucky Derby.

BOOSTERS: Of course, Californians do boast about their State and its climate, but they are not alone in this. Next to Californians, the residents of the State of Washington do the most boasting and boosting. After that come the Colorado people. Every day the Denver Post carries the slogan: "'Tis a Privilege to Live in Colorado." And under it a comment on the weather of which the following is a sample: "There were exactly 10 hours and 12 minutes of sunshine in Denver on Friday. This is two more minutes than on Thursday."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Why do you so often state you are over six feet tall? Do you consider that a personal achievement? Isn't it something for which you should thank your father and mother? A—The only reason I state I am over six feet tall is because some readers write in and say they visualize me as being about five feet seven inches tall and weighing around 215 pounds . . . Q—You say you wouldn't hire a man as an executive who wore a handkerchief in his outside coat pocket. Why? A—I didn't say that. I said I would not hire a man who wore a handkerchief in the outside pocket of his overcoat. It is all right to wear a handkerchief in the outside pocket of your suit coat, but putting one in an overcoat is an affectation. And you know what Lord Chesterfield said: "Any affectation whatsoever in dress indicates a flaw in the understanding."

ASIDES: The tobacco shops should be getting some Manila cigars soon. Some of these Manila cigars are very good. Puerto Rico sends us some good smokes, too. Ever try them? . . . A student of character by facial appearance says: "A long, protruding chin indicates slowness of action." I don't believe it. Art Fletcher, the old Giant shortstop, has a long protruding chin and there certainly has never been anything slow about Art when in action. I have done some checking on the idea that a square jaw means determination, a high forehead superior intelligence, etc., and have come to the conclusion that this kind of character reading is strictly the bunk.

OUT WEST: Another California restaurant's weekly menu card has come to my notice. The California populace may be shy of many things but there seems to be plenty of meat available in that area. This eatery has minute steak and chopped round steak on the bill every day. Roast beef is available twice a week and short ribs of beef once a week. On another day lamb is on the menu. On two other days baked ham and pork. What, no meatless days?

"Corporal, run over to Headquarters and find out if there isn't some regulation against enlisted men gambling with officers!"

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction Prohibited)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—An old uncle of mine, who came pretty close to being a celebrated idiot, once gave voice to the profound observation that it takes all kinds of people to make a world. My uncle was always saying things like that, which is why people shunned him for miles around.

Eventually he went to his eternal reward, although many complained he had certainly taken his time about it. But I do not know that I entirely concur. I sort of wish he had remained around long enough to meet Clinton N. Howard.

Outside of serving him right, it might have caused him to modify his view about it taking all kinds of people, etc. If he had met Mr. Howard he might have been induced to amend his observation to include:

"And there are all kinds of people the world can do without."

MR. HOWARD, in case you have forgotten, is general superintendent of the International Reform Federation. It was he who recently characterized the inspiring panorama of Capitol Hill as:

"Run Row in Washington—the shame of the Nation!"

To prove his contention, Mr. Howard said there were seven saloons in the vicinity.

He predicted that, if something were not done about it, Washington would be doomed—like Babylon and a few other rowdy neighborhoods he mentioned.

Well, it appears Mr. Howard was not content with indicting Capitol Hill as a hell's kitchen, sunken in debauchery. He now comes out with the virtual charge that Washington is a city of shuddery cigaret fiends.

NATURALLY, Mr. Howard wishes to put a stop to this, because putting a stop to things seems to be his life's vocation. He appears to have an idea we are being lured astray by the "cigaret barons" as he calls the cigaret manufacturers.

He claims they want to make more cigarets to ensnare more helpless victims. While this desire to glut the country with cigarets is not immediately discernible to the naked eye—in fact, I even hear talk about shortages—Mr. Howard avers it is true.

He concludes his exhortations as follows:

"We ask that the Senate War Investigating Committee grant further hearings before they pass upon the demand of the smoke eaters (meaning the poor, besotted addicts) and the billionaire promoters (meaning the makers) that any narcotic poison be made an essential industry, at least for the duration—and 1000 years thereafter."

That's a long time to wait for a cigaret!

FOR SOME REASON there seems to be a popular misconception that the White House facade is made of wood. From Pennsylvania avenue it gives the appearance of a great wooden mansion. But it ain't. There's not a bit of exterior wood. The outside is completely faced with Virginia sandstone.

I got interested in this subject after $2000 was appropriated to paint the exterior, which is not so pristine white as it used to be.

But FDR turned down the appropriation, saying painting could wait until after the war.

A householder called me and said he thought this was pretty poor economy, because unpainted wood deteriorates. So I called the White House to relay the warning that they were being penny wise and pound foolish. "Nuts," I was informed, "sandstone doesn't deteriorate for lack of paint."

It seems the exterior was sandstoned after a certain foe—which I will never mention now because it has become an ally—set fire to the place in 1814. This erstwhile foe, of course, would never think of doing such a thing again, so there is no use going around looking suspicious.

BARGAINS ARE not easy to find in Washington, but the Mutual Broadcasting Company stumbled upon one when it opened new offices here. It located a beautiful green rug in a second-hand store.

The thing was so elegant, the Mutual purchaser asked the second-hand dealer where on earth he had found it.

"It was just chance," said the dealer. "It was too green for Mr. Stettinius!"

It seems the Secretary of State liked nearly everything about the office he took over from Cordell Hull except the rug which glared too greenly at him.

He stood it as long as he could.

But at last he ordered it ripped out and replaced with a carpet of a softer, less conspicuous color!

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17—John Considine's plan to film another version of "Boys Town" has been hit on the head by M-G-M. Today John, who has been in bed a week with the flu, received a telegram from Father Flanagan saying M-G-M had informed him that because of the contract the film company holds on the rights to the stories of Father Flanagan's "Boys Town," they wouldn't permit another version to be made. Father Flanagan had previously asked for permission to make it.

Father Flanagan

Johnny produced the other two "Boys Town" pictures when he was at M-G-M. He brought Bob Considine out from New York to write the story. He says he hasn't any grievance against the studio, but Father Flanagan, being an honorable man, wants to live up to terms of his contract. Now John has to start again from scratch and find another story.

TAKING MY DOG for a walk around the block, I ran into Constance Moore who had her small daughter, Gina, out for an airing. Connie was a happy girl. She had just signed a long term contract at Republic. She will make three pictures a year and, she said with Frank Borzage there and the possibility of John Ford signing a contract, she felt her prospects had never been better. She isn't going to New York. She never was very keen about it, but she'll report at Republic for a musical called "Mexicana," in which Tito Guizar has a role. I was interested to hear Alfred Santell, who directed such stars as Marion Davies and Richard Barthelmess and many others, will direct "Mexicana." Al has a new long term contract.

ONE OF the nicest things I've heard is that Craig Reynolds, the Marine hero who received the Purple Heart, is getting a break at Monogram. He'll have a part with Kay Francis and Bruce Cabot in "Divorce," and if he comes up to expectations, Jeffrey Bernard will give him the male lead opposite Kay in "Allotment Wives." Craig is married to Barbara Pepper. It took him a long time to recover from his injuries suffered in action on Guadalcanal.

I WISH I had taken a few of the bets offered me that Paramount would never let Mary Martin star in any picture not made at that studio. Well, Mary, who is in Philadelphia, has signed a contract, by permission of Paramount, with Mary Pickford, to star in "One Touch of Venus," and when her show closes she'll head out here.

MRS. ENRICO CARUSO, JR., ex-wife of the great Caruso's son, has blossomed out as a composer of songs, and Sunday Nelson Eddy is singing her "O'er Meadowlands" on his radio program. She writes semi-classical numbers and says anything she has accomplished she feels she owes to the late Yasha Bunchuk, famous international cellist and musical director for the Capitol Theater in New York. Her song has a Russian theme and she regrets he never lived to hear the song after it was completed.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Sylvia Sidney is laid up with a torn ligament in her right foot. She won't be able to walk for at least two weeks; Susan Hayward and Jess Barker, who had no place for the expected twins, have located a home in Bel-Air. It's the one formerly occupied by Sonny Tufts; Capt. Eddie Hillman is home on a 21-day leave. He looks wonderful and did a great job overseas. Maybe you think June - Mrs. Hillman to you—wasn't glad to see him: Eleanor Parker's brother, Charles, is here on furlough after two years in the Pacific. And, by the way, I hear Eleanor is going to have a date with Robert Cummings very soon—it's mutual admiration.

BARBARA WHITING, age 13, knocked her teacher cold when she put the name of Errol Flynn opposite the word "virile" in a definition test; Agnes Moorehead, Academy Award candidate, is learning to ride a motorcycle. She gave it to her husband, Jack Lee, for a present, and she's getting more fun out of it than he is; Judy Garland parts with a wisdom tooth this week-end; she and Alan Ladd come back February 26 from their hospital tour; Bonita Granville has bought a beauty parlor in the valley. Not only will she be in business but will get all her work done free; Stanley Clements, who has had so much favorable comment on his "Salty O'Rourke" performance, is undergoing a tonsillectomy.

Boston After Dark

INCLUDING rye and bourbon, the whisky shortage will be at its worst in April . . . Rise Stevens said "hello" to the Boston press at her suite in the Plaza—her first such conclave since reaching eminence in opera . . . The operatic (and movies) diva sings tonight, under sponsorship of Spencer Fuller, in Symphony Hall . . . (She is very nice, incidentally.)

PATRICIA VAN ALEN, composer of the song "Shoulder to Shoulder," which Ben Jacobson of Boston has just acquired, is one of the very-ry social Van Alens, and prominent in the Van Alen-of-Newport tribe . . Dario and Corda, the dancers, know a contortionist who's been getting so stiff in the joints of late—that she's stopped going to them . . . And Frances King's squelcher to a pest who was philosophizing gravely with Frances and her partner, Harry Noble, last night, was a lulu . The pest inquired: "What do you know about life, anyway?" "We'd all be dead without it," replied Miss King . . . That stopped him.

THE CORRECT new address of Alcoholics Anonymous is 306 Newbury st., and the telephone number is COM-9489. . . . (Aside to Mrs. L. N., Western ave., Gloucester: We have forwarded your note to the boys and girls of AA Boston branch.) . . . Mayor Johnny Kerrigan makes the second photogenic Boston chief executive . . . He photographs as well as Maurice Tobin . . . Dining at the Ritz: Lt. Col. Clement Kennedy, boss when in civvies of the famous New Ocean House at Swampscott, and Mrs. Kennedy, who hasn't changed apparently since she was Katherine, one of the two lovely daughters of the late Gen. William H. Deane of South Boston . . Lt. Robert Taylor, USNR, who does the grand job of telling the moving-story in words to the flaming pictorial action of the Fighting Lady" . . in epo is the same Robert Taylor over whom the predecessors of the Sinatra squealers once swooned.

PREDICTION: Ed McKeever, pro tem coach of Notre Dame (while Frank Leahy is in active service) will switch to the Los Angeles pro team when Leahy returns to the South Bend campus . . . Angello Bertelli will play for the Los Angeles club.

Howie O'Dell, the Yale Coach, is authority that there will be no future contests between the Fighting Irish and Ivy League teams, and the Dartmouth-Notre Dame game of recent history at Fenway Park is the reason . . . That widely-publicized gag based on an alleged answer by a supposed member of the Dartmouth team to a Notre Dame lineman who was reported to have inquired "Where's the Dartmouth fast team?", the answer being "In France, you jerk!" didn't help the situation much.

VISITORS to Miami find a thrill in observing Al Capone at regular Sunday services, which the ex-Chicago "big shot" never fails to attend . . . When the record of the war is told in full, the famed Dartmouth naval squadron led by the late "Stubby" Pearson, will be credited with making air history.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—A former government official is reputed to have close to half a million cases of Scotch planted away. Expecting a cold? . . . Artie Shaw is telling all to a psychoanalyst, a la Moss Hart . . . Frankie Masters, the recently divorced ork leader, is forgetting with his vocalist, Phyllis Miles . . . The Arnold Kirkebys (he's the hotel magnate) are knitting tiny garments . . . Top models who can't buy facial tissues have found a wonderful substitute—paper diapers. Mamas of small babies are freeyourious! . . . Commercial airlines have already ordered 100 million dollars' worth of planes for post-war delivery. Douglas gets the biggest part of the orders . . . Ezra Stone needed two blood transfusions before his latest operation was possible . . . Want a gigles: Helen Forrest, after months of waiting for a telephone, was given a party line which she has to share with her singing rival, Dinah Shore!

PAUL MUNI will return to Broadway to produce and direct A. B. Shriffin's "Plant the Seed" as soon as he finishes "Counter Attack" for Columbia . . . Dr. Carl Fulton Sulzberger, the psychiatrist, spends his happiest spare time analyzing Leticia, the girl who dances in a rhinestone . . . You can buy one of the better Gotham gazettes for $100,000,000, if you have that much on you . . . West Coasters say the current battle for the Academy Awards is the hottest free-for-all in the tempestuous history of Hollywood . . . Now that Les Brown is a hit as a maestro, his dad—who used to be a baker—has given up the cake-and-pie business to lead a band, too. Pop, known as Ray W. Brown, pilots one of the most successful one-night orchestras in Pennsylvania.

"SCARFACE" AL CAPONE (according to reports from Florida), isn't ill, as his press agents would like to have you think. Au contraire, he's living the life of Riley . . . Meyer Davis' treatment of song-writers Don Walker and Buck Warnick is the talk of Broadway. They worked for two years on the score of "The Hot Pinafore" (their idea), only to be brushed off with a "Sorry, boys" when Davis learned he could get in on Max Gordon's version of the same notion . . . The cafe society clique doubts that Lenore Lemmon will go through with her divorce in Florida, or any other State for that matter . . . Joan Blondell is Pat De Cicco's favorite companion in the Hollywood night spots. She's related to him by marriage . . . Dale Belmont, the canary, looks so well in sweaters she even sleeps in them!

The OPA is quietly investigating three of Hollywood's most popular restaurants. Too much meat and no potatoes . . . Edgar Ausnit, the Rumanian Croesus, thinks Nan Bennett is even prettier than an oil well . . . A wonderful book (forthcoming) is called "Joe, the Wounded Tennis Player." Morton Thompson wrote it; Bob Benchley typed up a very droll introduction to it . . . The first of the new—and so-called "post-war"—three-dimensional signs will make its debut on Broadway in August. They say it will revolutionize outdoor advertising . . . The manufacture of costume jewelry is scheduled to be frozen within the next 60 days . . . Louis Hayward, Ida Lupino's ex, is steady-companying with pretty Peggy Morrow . . . Jane Pickens' sister Helen, who used to be a member of the famous trio, is now an account executive with a West Coast advertising agency.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 17 — War Notes: Kay Kyser has just made some recordings for the Philippines under OWI sponsorship. The natives wanted Kyser's music in preference to all other bands . . . The Stars and Stripes tells of a tired G. The attendant at the desk looked up and said "Don't you want to take a girl?" The shocked and startled soldier said, "Well, I hadn't thought about it." The attendant, trying to do her duty, said, "You'll find it much nicer that way but you don't have to decide now." "Okay," said the dumbfounded G. MOVIE BONER: The last Movie Boner of the week is from Jack Rollins of Washington. He claims there is a remarkable chair in "The Thin Man Comes Home." It's a folding chair and Myrna Loy has an awful struggle with it when she trys to set it up. Eventually, it is put up only to fall down when she sits in it. William Powell laughs at Myrna, so she dumps him out of hammock. That puts Powell, Myrna, and the chair on the ground. But the remarkable part is that when Powell and Loy are shown getting up, the chair is already up, waiting. Everything, even chairs, are wonderful in the movies. If you see a Movie Boner send it to me.

Bacall, Bogart Film for Met

Hollywood's most sensationally and successfully promoted screen property, Lauren Bacall, and Humphrey Bogart, whose celluloid teaming romanced her into an off-stage "understanding" (once he gets his divorce), are due on the Metropolitan screen on Thursday.

The exciting Bacall makes her film debut in Ernest Hemingway's story, "To Have and Have Not," a Howard Hawks-directed Warner production which drew an excellent "press" in its recent Broadway premiere.

The picture has for its background Vichy-controlled Martinique. Bogart, in a role not dissimilar from the one he made such a thing of in "Casablanca," plays a hard-headed sea skipper, an independent soul. Bacall is another independent soul, and when these two meet, sparks fly.

Allan Jones on Boston Bill

A Thursday date worth making is with the RKO Boston, where Allan Jones, Hollywood's romantic singing star, and Rosario and Antonio, rated the world's greatest Spanish gypsy dancers, are to head the new stage show.

Other acts include the Three Samuels, dancers, and the internationally known jugglers, the Six Willys.

The companion screen attraction, "Pan-Americana," features Phil Terry, Audrey Long, Bob Benchley, Eve Arden and the same Rosario and Antonio you'll be seeing in person.

"Bluebeard," with the saturnine John Carradine in the title role, the eeriest in a career built up on eerie impersonations, is to have its first local showing on the Trans-Lux screen on Wednesday. Teamed with him in the leading femmine role is the demure and winsome Jean Parker, in her most nerve-wracking assignment.

7 Vaudeville Acts

Seven vaudeville acts and the Lee Tracy-Evelyn Brent co-starring picture, "Pay Off," make up tomorrow's 1-to-11 p. m. continuous show at the Globe Theater.

Revue Benefit for Hospital Shows

The only public performance of "For Whom the Belles Toll," a musical revue presented by the Office Workers' Canteen hostesses will be given a week from tonight at New England Mutual Hall, at 8 p. m. Proceeds are to be used for extended war work in camps and hospitals.

Dean Gildersleeve's Idea On 'Curing' Nazi Germany

By AUSTEN LAKE

I'M POSITIVE THAT DEAN Virginia A. Gildersleeve of Barnard College, freshly appointed as the only women delegate to the United Nations Conference at San Francisco next April, is a gracious lady! I know from personal contact that Miss Frances Perkins is too! Both typify the splendid spirituality and gentle idealism of our womankind, which I loyally agree is the FINEST there is.

Austen Lake

But I question both ladies' emotional equipment to handle the hard realities of factional U. S. labor or Germany's postwar fanaticism. I trust this is not just the nasty, hairy old male in me speaking. For God must agree that the sweaty, whiskery sex have made some unholy messes out of things in our own right. Still I doubt that the Jap or the German, being sweaty and whiskery too, will understand Miss Gildersleeve's college-bred humanitarianisms any more than they understood Miss Dorothy Thompson on the same subject.

Among other things, Miss Gildersleeve, you are quoted, "I assume that the armies of occupation will eliminate the most poisonous Nazis—somehow. Then, I suppose, the armies will control the German schools—for a while at least. Of course, Democratic ideals cannot be imposed by force, nor will alien teachers be successful in destroying Nazi ideas. But the armies can control what is taught."

The Case of Fraulein Maria

I ASSUME THE NEW YORK TIMES quoted you correctly. If so, Miss Gildersleeve, that is more of the vague, formless, gaseous twaddle we've been getting from our State Department. For, as a school marm, you know very well you can lead a scholar to the classroom but you cannot make him or her think! Sure, the Army can "control" what is taught! We could even station sentries to censor each classroom's study, or purge Nazi doctrine from text books, or recruit new sets of teachers. But can you saw off the top of a pupil's head and insert new brains, fashioned to our style of philosophy? No, you have to use the same old brains, already filled with philosophy they prefer—Naziism!

F'instance, how would you control the education of such a young fraulein as "Maria," a 17-year-old German madchen, living in Monschau when it was taken by our 9th Army. Her story is also in today's Times. When the soldiers came into Maria's house to place her under custody for conspiring with a known Nazi saboteur, she was writing to her SS sweetheart, Peter. "I hate Americans," she had penned. "One thing they will never take from us—the old principle that to live means to fight . . . Is there justice anywhere to make these pigs pay for such deeds? Our hearts cry for reprisal! I feel that we, the German youth, are sorely tried but also steeled hard as iron and destined to fight on for the ideals of our indispensable Fuehrer. We, German youth, will never betray him."

And yet, Miss Gildersleeve, Maria had penned a casual postulate—"Today I almost rushed into a buried mine. An American soldier saved me." Then she wept more syntax-tears for her "beloved Cologne and the beautiful cities being bombed." And when a U. S. interrogator asked, "But wasn't the bombing of London also horrible?" she replied, "Ah, but the German cities are our homes and only military objectives were bombed in London."

If we can concede that Maria is a scale-model of German youth-thought, how would you have our Army "control" her thinking—provided it turns from the rugged, he-man business of total warfare to do missionary thinking? (I'm glad, Miss Gildersleeve, you added those words, "somehow" and "I suppose.") Well, suppose the Army does supervise German "re-education" and some U. S. soldier-teacher, or a subsidized facsimile of same, says, "Now, Maria, the bombings of Cologne and your beautiful cities were retribution made necessary by the atrocities of your Luftwaffe and SS. troops."

Maria's distracted mind would turn toward her Peter, the SS. trooper, and she'll reason, "What, my mild-tempered, blond Peter! Atrocities! Ridiculous! Lies! Swinehunds!" Perhaps she will not say it out loud.

Who Will Teach Better?

AND PERHAPS, IN TIME, SHE AND PETER will be reunited, marry, and have broods of sturdy, blond children, who will comply docily with forced-attendance at our Army schools, where they will recite democratic lessons. But at night Frau Maria and Herr Peter will school them, too, saying, "Our immortal Fuehrer is gone, but his idealism is imperishable! Germany must endure its undeserved suffering until the New Day dawns! Live, my children! Live for the rebirth of a future, mighty Germany! Nurse your inward hate for these alien pigs! Resist, silently and internally, my little Hansel and Fritz and Johann, and teach your children to forge themselves as German weapons for The Day." Who will teach better, Miss Gildersleeve—an alien army or the German parents?

You say the armies "can control" what is taught, "for a time at least." And when that "time" ends, it is reasonable to presume that the armies will march away and take ship, perhaps giving themselves a congratulatory pat for indoctrinating German youth with the democratic, or Soviet, or French Socialist virus. We may think, "We have injected a safe antitoxin against Naziism. Now there will be no more wars." And the German people, including the children, will wave delighted farewells. Bands will play and flags fly.

But the Nazi microbe, by whatever new name, will have been cultured carefully and secretly. And presently your girls at Barnard College, Dean Gildersleeve, who are now lovely, post-adolescent buds, but by that time fruitful matrons with family broods of their own, will discover that here comes another German fuehrer, by whatever name, to incite his militant people to another world war. Then the Barnard girls' children, now as yet unborn, will have to march off to troop convoys and fight and die all over again. What would you say to yourself then, Miss Gildersleeve, about your current, vague humanitarianism. And what would I, who also have kids, say about you?

Call me up some time and get MY program about educating Germany!

Twin Bill Vital to Bruins

By BILL GRIMES

For the past two weeks, the Bruins have been aided and abetted in their fight to keep the Rangers from overtaking them by the Canucks and Red Wings but they'll be on their own over the week-end.

The Bruins and Rangers open a home and home double-header tonight at the Boston Garden. On the morrow, they will tangle in Madison Sq. Garden.

Although neither club will be at full strength, the Bruins and Rangers will go all out in this series. The Blue Shirts haven't won a game here this season and the Rossmen haven't taken a decision in New York.

Jack Crawford, the Bruins star defenseman, has skated during practice sessions for two days but he isn't by the widest stretch of imagination ready to return to active service. And, Rangers will be without Kilby MacDonald, who fractured his collar bone on Thursday while playing against the Blackhawks.

Going into this crucial series, the Bruins and Rangers have each played 38 games. The Rossmen are in fourth place by a margin of four points. Of course, it would be neck-and-neck if the Bruins could take both ends of this double-header. But if the Rossmen are able to get an even break, the Rangers will have only ten games to pick up nine points, which will be need to get them into the playoffs.

Of course, there'll be a question as to whether Ken McAuley or Doug Stevenson will be in the nets for the New Yorkers. McAuley was hurt a week ago tonight in Montreal and Stevenson was brought up from the Rovers for the Canadiens and Detroit games.

But, Manager Paul Thompson refused to allow Stevenson, who is the property of the Blackhawks, to play for Rangers

Hazel Franklin Thrills Fans by Skating Feats

By JACK CONWAY

TWO OF THE world's leading women figure skaters will dazzle the crowds that will attend the Ice Follies at the Boston Garden beginning next Tuesday night. They are 19-year-old Hazel Franklin, petite, blonde English skating queen, and the spectacular and vivacious Evelyn Chandler, American star.

It will be Hazel Franklin's second appearance with the Ice Follies in this city. When a tiny miss of only 14 years Miss Franklin, at the time a professional, gave an exhibition of figure skating at the Silver Skates Derby. Since then Miss Franklin has gone on to stardom.

Hazel Franklin

Before joining the Ice Follies, Miss Franklin gave exhibitions at Lake Placid and in California. She once told me at Lake Placid that her great ambition was to become a movie star. She signed with the Ice Follies as she felt that association with the Shipstad-Johnson show would gain for her the prestige necessary if she were to compete with Sonja Henie in the movies.

Edi Scholdan, skating instructor at the Commonwealth Skating Club and a figure skating star in his own right, was the first person to tell me of Miss Franklin. When the Ice Follies star was only 12 years old she was in the same London ice show with Edi.

Miss Franklin was born in Bournemouth, England, and at the age of ten she went to London to learn how to skate. She was an immediate success and won bronze and silver medals. She skated before royalty, giving a special exhibition in figure skating before the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden.

Hazel is still only a tiny miss, being barely five feet 1 inch in height and weighing a mere 110 pounds. In her early career, Hazel skated on small ice surfaces at theaters and in night clubs, but she likes the large surfaces of places like the Garden much better.

The English girl's mother and two of her brothers are in the United States, while her father is in England. Hazel proclaims Roy Shipstad as the greatest skater in the world, and her opinion is shared by most experts of skating.

The English girl likes to play a piano, and while she prefers classical music she is also expert in playing popular tunes.

Evelyn Chandler Stars

EVELYN CHANDLER, whose marriage name is Mapes, retired before the birth of her baby, but the blonde haired youngster is now old enough to travel and so the Ice Follies star is back with the show. For spectacular feats on the ice there is not a skater who compares with Evelyn Chandler. She moves from one difficult number into another without hesitation.

Eleanor O'Mara, who thrilled the big crowd at the Silver Skates Derby, is one of the few skaters who can compare with Evelyn Chandler in this respect. The average leading figure skater does one spectacular number, then takes things easy before attempting another difficult feat.

Bess Earhardt was with the Ice Follies when Evelyn Chandler made her last appearance here. This talented skater is also now a mother, and it is expected that Bess will be back with the Ice Follies by next season.

Follies Well Organized

THE ICE Follies have a remarkably well organized show. Eddie Shipstad and Roy Johnson insist on perfect team work. The result is that the big carnival is run off with perfect precision, while each member of the show is rooting for the success of every person who helps make the big affair click.

It has not been uncommon for a star to give up a drawing room in a Pullman for some girl in the line who is ill.

For years the Ice Follies gave a special party to members of the Garden crew who set up the props and saw that things moved well on nights of performances. Last year the Garden group gave their own party to the Ice Follies and all of the stars attended it.

When the Ice Follies first came to Boston, they traveled in buses and didn't know where the payroll was going to come from. Lt. Col. Walter A. Brown agreed to give them the use of the Garden on a percentage arrangement. The Ice Follies-Garden combination clicked and the old agreement, never even written out, still holds.

There are no more financial worries for the Ice Follies as it is one of the most successful ice carnivals in the world. It will once more play to record houses during its Boston stay, and it promises to put on its most brilliant show.

Pordena Smith Hello, Good-by

By RINGSIDE

If Pordena Smith is a fair representative of the Canadian crop of boxers, it would be well for Boston promoters to use American mitt flingers or go out of business. Smith was knocked out after 1m., 1 s. of boxing in the fifth round of his tussle with Ruddy Evans, an average club fighter from Hackensack, N. J., at a Callahan A. C. show at Mechanics Building.

Smith was completely outclassed, and was finally dusted off by a looping right hand punch to the jaw. Smith went to the canvas as if shot and he was counted out by Referee Johnny Martin.

Evans is not any world beater himself, but he did not experience any difficulty in handling the slow moving Smith. The latter did very little effective scoring.

NO HELP TO HUB BOXING

Smith was a distinct disappointment to those persons who believed some of the press agent stories that were sent out about him. The Boston American did not give space in its columns to any of these stories as it felt that Smith, who admitted he had never fought a first class American middleweight, should first prove what he could do in the ring.

The boxing game in Boston would be in a much healthier condition than it is if newcomers like Smith were first compelled to prove what they can do in a minor bout.

The main bout was over before 10 o'clock which gave the 2103 disappointed fans an abbreviated evening of boxing. The gross gate was $3340 and the net $2529.

The preliminaries were over quickly. Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell knocked out Al Mitchell in 45 seconds. We do not think Mulligan should be tossed in with near champions, but he certainly should be asked to take on better opponents than Mitchell.

Johnny Ryan, soldier fighter from Detroit, made another good showing when he kayoed Tony Pedro of Hartford in three rounds.

There was a dispute over the ending of the bout between Bobby Giles of Buffalo and the "Brown Bomber" of West Roxbury. In the opinion of the judges, Billy McMenimen and Henry Sundberg, the "Brown Bomber" was fouled. Referee Henry Brown, however, counted the "Brown Bomber" out. In the press section, there were many who felt the "Brown Bomber" had been fouled. The referee's decision, right or wrong, is final.

Stoneham Sextet Wins Hockey Title

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Succeeding, where twice before it had failed, the Stoneham High School hockey team convincingly waltzed to the Greater Boston League championship here this afternoon, by whipping Medford, 4 to 2, in a thrill-packed season's wind-up before a record crowd of close to 5000 fans in the Boston Garden.

Stoneham had previously dropped a circuit tilt and an exhibition clash to the defending champion Mustangs.

Scoring honors for the afternoon were equally divided between spindly-legged Wally Cogan and Bay Clark, but substitute center Cogan stole the show.

Playing cozily just outside his own blue line, Cogan was a thorn in the Mustangs' hopes of retaining the title with his rushes into Medford territory.

COGAN FIRST TO SCORE

Cogan started the scoring when he picked up the puck near center ice, bounced it off the skates of a Medford defenseman, picked it up again to go in all alone and flipped it high into the far corner for the tally.

Medford bounced back when Jerry Brennan circled the net, passed to Paul Whelan, anchored, for a quick flip into the nets.

In the second period, Cogan put Stoneham in the lead again as he jumped on his own rebound., fought it out with the Medford defense on the lip of the net and outscrambled the Mustangs enough to pass over to Al McHenry. McHenry just gave it a patticake push into the strings.

CLARK STEALS PUCK

Clark stepped out in the third period to do his bit and just beyond the midway mark jumped his team into a 3-1 lead. Clark stole the puck just outside the Medford blue line, passed through the defense to Bob Murphy, who lifted nicely beyond Goalie Don Fougere for the marker.

Whelan's sneak behind the Stoneham net closed this gap again, but Clark took over again in the final minute to clinch it. John Rolli and Baxter Little had caused a wild scramble in the Medford zone, getting together for a pass to Clark, who lifted over the prone Fougere.

The lineup:

STONEHAM—Rolli, lw; Murphy, c; Clark, rw; Flynn, ld; Livingstone, rd; Whiston, g.

MEDFORD—Whelan, rw; McNair, c; Brennan, lw; Templeton, rd; Sullivan, ld; Fougere, g.

Stoneham Spares—McHenery, Cogan, Doherty, Little.

Medford Spares—Palladina, DiBiase, Rennie, Venoit.

SUMMARY

FIRST—Stoneham, Cogan (unassisted) 3:51; Medford, Whelan (Brennan) 7:16. Penalties—Flynn (interference); Templeton (handling puck); Flynn (trip).

SECOND—Stoneham, McHenery (Cogan) 4:57. Penalties—None.

THIRD—Stoneham, Murphy (Clark) 5:19; Medford, Whelan (unassisted) 8:09; Stoneham, Clark (Rolli, Little) 9:17. Penalties—None.

Referee—Cleary. Linesman—Foley.

Tufts Relay 'Shot' For NYAC Games

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Tufts' mile relay team, which won a hair-raiser from Rhode Island State in the B. A. A. games in 3:32.6, will race M. I. T. and R. I. State at New York tonight with only Dick Porter of the regular quartet in action.

Lead-off man Ray Southwick has a pulled tendon, and Myles King and George Kennedy remained home to take V-12 exams. Thus, Coach Dussault was forced to throw a makeshift foursome together with the result that Hurdler Alan Wolozin will lead off, Porter will run No. 2, Sprinter Woodworth No. 3 and Miler Ed Jolley anchor.

On paper the team seems 15 or 20 seconds slower than either M. I. T., which beat Harvard and Cornell at B. A. A. in 3:29.5, or R. I. State, which was beaten only an eyelash by Tufts last week.

Oscar Hedlund has Warren Chapman, Joe Shea, Royce Crimmin and John Serrie intact from the B. A. A. victory and when veteran Charlie Goldie recovers from a pulled tendon Tech will have a foursome that threatens New York U.'s fast four for IC4-A honors, which Tufts won last winter.

Boston College, which may be tossed into the same race, along with Holy Cross, will start Elias Weir, Tom Carney, McGillicuddy and Ray King. This quartet couldn't beat 3:45 against H. C. at the B. A. A. meet and isn't expected to figure.

TWO BOSTON SPECIALISTS

Specialists from Greater Boston colleges competing tonight are Herb McKenley of Boston College, running unattached in the Buermeyer 500, and Tufts' Duncan Blanchard in the two-mile.

McKenley, capable of a 1:11 600, was beaten by Jim Herbert, Elmore Harris et al in the Hollis 600 in 1:15.5. Whether he wins tonight depends mainly on his ability to beat his rivals to the first corner.

Blanchard's chances of victory in the two-mile seem slim because he will be facing Forrest Efaw and Phil Stillwell. Efaw did 9:20 behind the handicapped Stillwell in the Billings two-mile here. Blanchard, lap and a half behind, was timed in 9:37.

There are many who believe the 18-year-old Stillwell, deferred by the Army, will defeat the veteran Efaw from scratch. He scampered around the Garden saucer like a champion last week, kept his head when Efaw passed him a lap from home, turned on the heat and beat Efaw to the tape by a good 10 yards.

For the first time since the indoor intercollegiates were inaugurated in 1922, Boston College will send no entries . . . Ineligible McKenley is slated to run the 600 in the national championships next Saturday . . . And whatever happened to Gunder Hagg? . . . Kennedy in the 1000 and Blanchard in the mile should bring NE3-AU championships to Tufts next Thursday in the title meet at the "Y."

Dilboy Post Burns Mortgage

Sports may take a bow for some of the success which comes when Dilboy Post, No. 529, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Somerville burns the mortgage on their beautiful home in Cutter sq., Somerville, Washington's Birthday.

The proceeds from amateur boxing shows held under the Dilboy auspices swelled the building fund total which enabled the largest Massachusetts post to pay off the mortgage.

Junior activities, under the NEAAU auspices also, were a great help in attracting the interest of the young blood.

It is a far cry from their first quarters in a room of the Somerville, K. of C., building to their present spacious quarters at 371 Summer st., in the shadow of Davis square.

Tim Harrington, City Hall attache, who heads the mortgage burning committee, lauds the post sports promotors, with such hard workers as Past Commander Eugene W. Driscoll, head of the NEAAU, Past Commander Freddie Russo and others who have done wonders with the post athletic program.

Tiger Hurler Pistol Expert

FARRAGUT, Idaho, Feb. 17 (AP)—A shooting eye matches the pitching arm of Frederick C. Hutchinson, former Detroit Tiger pitcher.

Hutchinson, now a chief athletics specialist at Farragut Naval Training Center, was one of four men awarded Navy Medals for expert pistol shooting.

He scored 257 out of a possible 280 points with a .45 caliber pistol on the outdoor expert pistol range.
